Prosecution Follies

by Miles Mathis

July 29, 2026

Before we get to the main course here, I have a story for you hot off the presses. I just got back from the market, and I had just made it to check-out. This guy came in behind me immediately with just two items, so I asked him if he wanted to go ahead of me. He said no and I said are you sure. He said that was OK. I laughed and said, "Yeah, I feel the same way. This isn't New York City, we are in no hurry. That's why we live out in the country." He laughed and replied,

HIM: I used to live in New York City.
ME: So did I, for a short time long ago. I don't miss it.
HIM: I kinda do. I was on Wall Street.
ME: Well, I am an artist, so I was living the opposite life of you there. [Which was not meant as a brag. I was living in a one-room flat, shared, sleeping on the floor and barely getting by, while he was probably living in the Upper East Side.]
HIM: I was actually working on the set of Law and Order.
ME: [Looking unimpressed.]
HIM: My wife worked for Goldman Sachs.
ME: Oooh: I don't think I would admit that if I were you.
HIM: I'm proud of my wife. It was a good job.
ME: You should defend your wife, but I am not a big fan of Goldman Sachs, I think you know why.
HIM: [Not getting mad, as I expected, but quietly conceding I am right. After a long pause while he is thinking what to say:] Not as bad as working for Elon Musk.
ME: Yes, he is also awful.
HIM: Not as bad as Peter Thiel.
ME: Yes, he is also awful. [Note the "also".]
HIM: [On the way out:] Have a good one.
ME: You, too.

I found that all very amusing, not only for the fact he would brag about his wife working at Goldman Sachs in the grocery line and get shot down for it, but even more for the fact he would try to justify it by naming even worse criminals, as deflection. Although they aren't worse criminals. Musk and Thiel are mostly fake, while Goldman definitely is not. I thought of saying that, but decided it wasn't worth it: too long a conversation, one I didn't want to have with this rich asshole.

Fauci is giving testimony again before Congress, with Rand Paul chairing, but he has taken the Fifth, telling us once again this is all theater.

Just to remind you, Joe Biden allegedly pardoned Fauci on his last day of office, except for one problem: there is no such thing as a pre-pardon. Legally as well as logically, you can't be pardoned until you have been convicted, since until then there is nothing to pardon. Trump's attorneys must know that, but Trump has said he will respect Biden's fake pardon, proving this is all the usual vaudeville.

Adding to that fake is the fact the pardon was signed with an autopen with a forged signature, making it null and void, and Trump has admitted it and publicized it, so why would Trump respect that?

I also remind you that if anyone really wished to prosecute Fauci, this wouldn't be the way to do it. Fauci should be indicted by the Justice Department for mass murder and crimes against humanity, also by an international tribunal of justice. Not in another dog and pony show in our pretend Congress, which is just a paper moon on a cardboard sea, a front for the DoD and CIA and Federal Reserve and Goldman Sachs.

Fauci has simply agreed to be the scapegoat here, probably for another huge paycheck, to keep your eyes on him and off the thousands of other top people who should be prosecuted, including Biden, Trump, Gates, everyone in Congress, all the Governors, the entire CDC, FDA, NIH, WHO, thousands of mayors and "health" departments, and the heads of Pfizer, Moderna, and Johnson&Johnson. Fauci is very old and will soon be dead regardless, and he knows there is no chance he will ever be inconvenienced for this beyond sitting there in a chair and listening to fake Congresspeople grandstand. So it is the perfect diversion. America can practice its two-minutes hate on Fauci, he will skate, and nothing will ever get done. Big Pharma will continue to own everyone and everyone in the country will remain addicted to 50 drugs.

We can even tell by RFK's ridiculous meme:

Bhattacharya is holding a beagle puppy, to remind you Fauci ran horrific experiments on puppies. But that just reminds me of the joke memes Iran's leaders are releasing, of Trump as a LEGO character.

Does that fit the seriousness of an allegedly brutal war? Or does that prove again the whole thing is a 1984-style fake, with Iran being in on the joke, the propaganda being written for ten-year-olds, or people with the mental life of a ten-year-old?

Same thing with Fauci, because RFK's meme doesn't at all fit the seriousness of this. Fauci and the rest of these people haven't just tortured a few cute puppies, they have murdered and maimed millions of people for profit, in a genocide far larger than the one done by the Nazis. Fauci is a thousand times worse than Mengele—who he is being compared to—since, like Musk and Thiel, Mengele is mostly a fake. Mengele was part of the whole Auschwitz fraud, made up after the war to create sympathy for the Jews (I have proved that before and am about to prove it again, below). But the vaccine genocide was not a fake, and it killed far more than 6 million worldwide, even if we accept that number as told. It has already killed at least 4 million in the US alone, and the US is only 1/25th of the world population. So that's 100 million and counting. The vaccine genocide, by itself, stopped and reversed growth rates worldwide, including in the US, where, without including new immigrants, growth went negative 2021-2023 (and probably still is). That is admitted in mainstream charts, though they have since suppressed and faked data, as in every other field. They are trying to cover this up, but not doing a very good job.

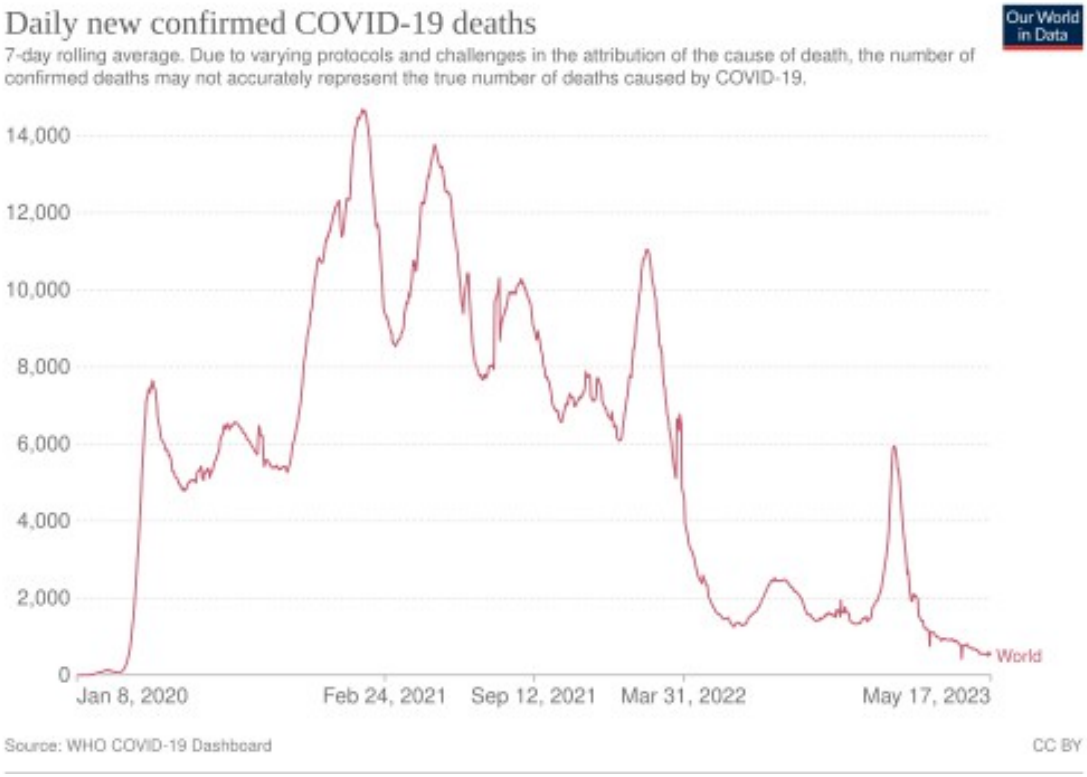
See this chart published at Wiki, for instance:



Strange that Covid had been around for a year, then suddenly respiked in February of 2021, just after the "life saving" vaccines arrived. If the vaccines were really life-saving, as advertised by both Biden and Trump, we should have seen a huge spike down then, not a huge spike up. So what I would say we are looking at there is normal flu deaths being transferred over into the Covid column in 2020, to get everyone scared, then vaccine deaths transferred into the Covid column starting in 2021, to hide them. But in 2022 people started to realize that was what was happening, so they had to taper off the Covid deaths, to better hide the vaccine deaths.

As another example, the Wiki page on Covid admits it killed over 7 million worldwide, but that doesn't include vaccine deaths or all the people who later died of heart attack. They try to keep all those numbers way down, and unlinked, but my assumption is almost everyone in the "killed by Covid" line was actually killed by the vaccines. But even without my proving that exhaustively, the problem is 7 million deaths worldwide wouldn't affect growth rates much at all, and couldn't possibly affect birth rates. In order to have this massive effect on growth rates and birth rates requires hundreds of millions of deaths in a world population of 8 billion, plus a worldwide destruction of fertility no virus can achieve. So if it wasn't Covid in that period, what was it? No answer from the mainstream, they just hope you don't do the math. Pfizer has paid them to bury it and they have dutifully complied . . . which means they are also complicit. All these government statisticians should also be tried as accomplices to mass murder and its cover-up. And that applies to Wikipedia as well and the mass media. The CIA writers creating those pages should also be indicted and convicted.

I got bored with this, so I thought I would prove Josef Mengele was a fraud, like the rest of the Nazis. They should have chosen a scarier looking actor, eh? Are murderous psychopaths always smiling like that? Good to know. Never seen Fauci smile like that.

Mengele's father was a rich military contractor, providing vehicles. He was the largest supplier of farm equipment before the war, like John Deere. He is sold as Catholic, but of course the Mengeles were Jewish. Josef's brothers were Karl and Alois. So add that Alois to my extensive research on the Nazis. I have shown many of them were named Alois or Aloysius, an old Phoenician name, including Hitler's close relatives like Arnold Alois Schwarzenegger. This indicates Mengele was another cousin of the rest. Mengele is just a slur of Menge, which means "many" in Hebrew.

He came out of the Greater German Youth League, which he joined at 13, later leading the local chapter. In 1931 he joined Der Stahlhelm, which makes no sense since it was for veterans and Mengele was 20 and wasn't even in the military then. Der Stahlhelm is famous for its Jewish membership and for it support of the Hohenzollern monarchy, once again indicating Mengele was a Jewish tory pretending to be a Nazi.

Mengele's first PhD was in anthropology, not medicine, which he allegedly got at age 24—very early. He supposedly got a second doctorate in medicine just three years later. Almost nobody gets two doctorates by age 27. We are told this second doctorate was an MD, but that is not clear to me. Again, three years would be very fast, and then he would need several more years as a resident. Given his bio, this doctorate in medicine looks to me like a PhD in the field of medicine, rather than as a degree from medical school. We are told Mengele was a resident in 1939 in Leipzig, but he was already Verschuer's permanent assistant, so I don't see how he had time to do both. Both are full-time jobs, and Mengele was also married by then. Guess who he married? Irene Schonbein, a Jewish girl of course.

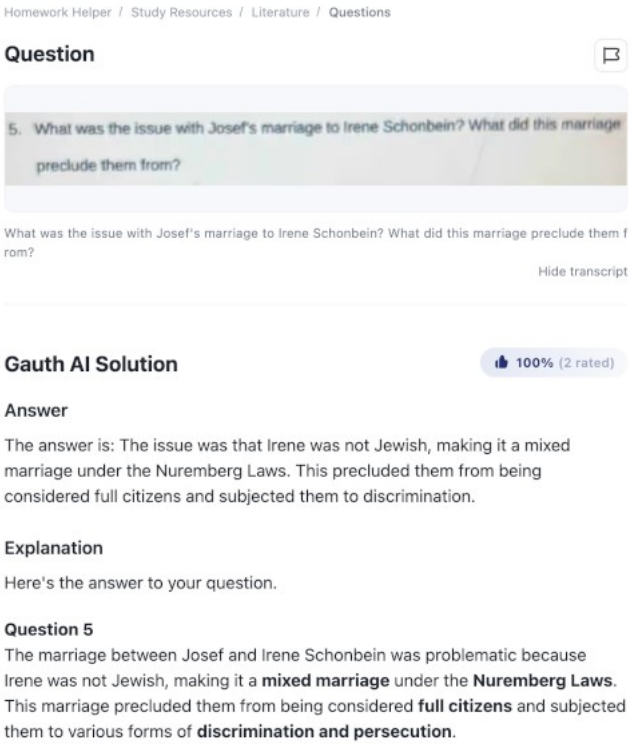
This is also interesting:



Homework Helper / Study Resources / Literature / Questions
Question
5. What was the issue with Josef's marriage to Irene Schonbein? What did this marriage preclude them from?
What was the issue with Josef's marriage to Irene Schonbein? What did this marriage preclude them from?
Hide transcript
Gauth AI Solution
100% (2 rated)
Answer
The answer is: The issue was that Irene was not Jewish, making it a mixed marriage under the Nuremberg Laws. This precluded them from being considered full citizens and subjected them to discrimination.
Explanation
Here's the answer to your question.
Question 5
The marriage between Josef and Irene Schonbein was problematic because Irene was not Jewish, making it a mixed marriage under the Nuremberg Laws. This marriage precluded them from being considered full citizens and subjected them to various forms of discrimination and persecution.

Gauthmath is an AI homework helper, but it is unintentionally helping us here as well. Gauth thinks Mengele was Jewish, as you see. So was Irene, in fact, but that doesn't really matter here, since AI has already admitted Mengele is Jewish himself.

There she is, and I don't have to tell you what to look at. Her nose. And she was a bottle blonde, as is clear in other photos where it is an unnatural shade.

You will say Josef here isn't Josef Mengele, but Josef, father of Irene, she being named after her mother. That doesn't work either, since in that case they are admitting this Josef Schonbein is Jewish, which makes Schonbein a Jewish name, as I said. So they lose either way. Besides, her father wasn't named Josef, as we are about to see.

It is interesting, however, that Mengele allegedly worked with Otmar Freiherr von Verschuer on his PhD thesis, Freiherr meaning Verschuer was a baron. Verschuer was famous for experimenting on twins, so I remind you of my research on Eva Braun, showing you she was a twin or triplet. The Verschuers were mining millionaires, and were actually descendants of the royal Stuarts. This being admitted on his Wiki page. His son became an EU official and his grandson is a famous actor.

That's Baer with Mengele and Hoss at Auschwitz, three more actors. Are the uniforms correct? I don't think so, since Hoss and Baer have the same decs and rank. But Baer's final rank is given as major, while Hoss was a lt. colonel. They both have the four stars of a lt. colonel. And notice the number of buttons doesn't match, and the pockets don't match, either. Such lazy wardrobe! Regardless, they are poor actors, since we aren't getting the right genocidal vibe, are we? Baer is trying to look dour, but the other two just aren't getting it. They needed far better direction.

While we are on ranks, I remind you that I have proved the SS was a fraud from the ground up. It wasn't even part of the real military, and the mainstream admits that, calling it "paramilitary". Substitute faux-military for paramilitary and you have it precisely. The SS was one of many Nazi theater projects, which fake historians have tried to graft onto the German military later, without much success. If you look up Nazi ranks, these SS ranks don't even come up. As I say, that's because the SS wasn't actually military.

I know this because the SS started in 1925 as Hitler's private security, after he allegedly got out of jail for the Beer Hall Putsch. But that whole story is a fraud, dooming the SS story from its roots. There was no Beer Hall Putsch and Hitler was never in jail. If he had been jailed for treason he couldn't have gotten out that fast, couldn't have gotten German citizenship, and couldn't have run for office or been appointed to anything. Telling us the Nazis were a theater project from the beginning. The SS was part of that. The SS Follies.

Mengele supposedly was chosen for no reason by the SS in 1937, at age 26, and went immediately into basic training. Except that that conflicts with his academic history in the previous paragraph, where in 1937 he was getting his second doctorate and getting hired immediately by the Goethe University Frankfurt to work with Verschuer. Mengele was called up for service in June of 1940, which again conflicts with the whole doctor story. He was 29, married, and just one year into his residency, also permanent assistant to Baron Verschuer. So he couldn't have been a working doctor yet, and should have been given a deferment for those three reasons. Nonetheless we are told he was a medical officer sent to Russia for Operation Barbarossa. He was allegedly awarded two Iron Crosses in 1941 and wounded out in 1942. In 1943 he was promoted to captain and went back to work as Verschuer's assistant (where I assume he was the whole time). And here is where it goes completely off the rails:

In early 1943, Verschuer encouraged Mengele to apply for a transfer to the concentration camp service.[31][42] Mengele's application was accepted and he was posted to Auschwitz in May 1943,[43] where he was appointed by SS-Standortarzt Eduard Wirths, chief medical officer at Auschwitz, to the position of chief physician of the Romani family camp at Auschwitz II-Birkenau.[31][42]

Why would Verschuer encourage him to apply for a transfer into concentration camp service? A transfer from a cushy university sinecure to a concentration camp where he would be sending large numbers of people to their deaths? Does that sound likely? Only if it was more theater.

Along with several other Auschwitz doctors, Mengele transferred to Gross-Rosen concentration camp in Lower Silesia on 17 January 1945, taking with him two boxes of specimens and the records of his experiments at Auschwitz. Most of the camp medical records had already been destroyed by the SS[81][82] by the time the Red Army liberated Auschwitz on 27 January.[83]

Hmmm. So most of the records at Auschwitz were destroyed? Then how do we know so much about it? Answer: Jewish Hollywood. And of course Mengele himself kept two boxes of incriminating records, and made them available to historians. Because that makes sense. So Mengele must have been hanged at Nuremberg, right? Nope, he died in 1979 in Brazil, age 68. They pretend the allies couldn't find him, letting him escape to Argentina and then not being able to get extradition. Mengele failed to burn his boxes of evidence before leaving, as you would do. By 1956 he was living under his real name in Buenos Aires. That same year they admit he took a ski holiday to Switzerland, again under his real name with a West German passport. Are you still there? Are you awake? The US was running Germany then, and they issued Mengele a passport in his own name. He then married his sister-in-law. He owned a pharmaceutical company in Buenos Aires under his own name.

How could that be? Were there no Jews living in Argentina in the 1950s? Is that what we are supposed to believe? Mengele was only in his 40s then, so he would have been easily recognizable. Jose Mengele shouldn't have fooled anyone. And yet this is what we are expected to believe.

By 1960, just 15 years after the war, Mengele was back in Germany. He also lived in Italy and Switzerland, so it wasn't just Argentina. This would be like Hitler living in London under his own name in 1960, still with the mustache.

Simon Wiesenthal allegedly got extradition papers from Argentina in 1959, around 14 years too late, which scared Mengele so much, as you see, he moved to back to Germany. Makes sense to me, boss.

Finally feeling some heat from that, he moved to Brazil under a fake name, buying a coffee and cattle farm. In 1960 Mossad also started looking for him, 15 years too late, but you know Mossad: not very serious about the Holocaust. They had tips from Eichmann and Wiesenthal about Brazil, but didn't follow up. Although Mengele had married Martha long since, Mossad searched her apartments in Germany in 1966 and 1967, finding no connection between them. So they put it on hold for another decade, as you do. Funny that Mossad, CIA, FBI, Wiesenthal, and all the other Nazi hunters couldn't find a trace of him, but Wikipedia now knows where he was and what he was doing month to month in those years, including addresses, jobs, and aliases. After he died everyone became ace investigators, I guess.

Mengele's mother is allegedly named Walburga Hupfauer. This would link her to Theo von Hupfauer, indicating she was nobility. The given name Walburga also indicates that, it being a Phoenician name like Alois. Theo Hupfauer was named Reich Minister of Labor by Hitler in 1945, so these families were linked from birth.

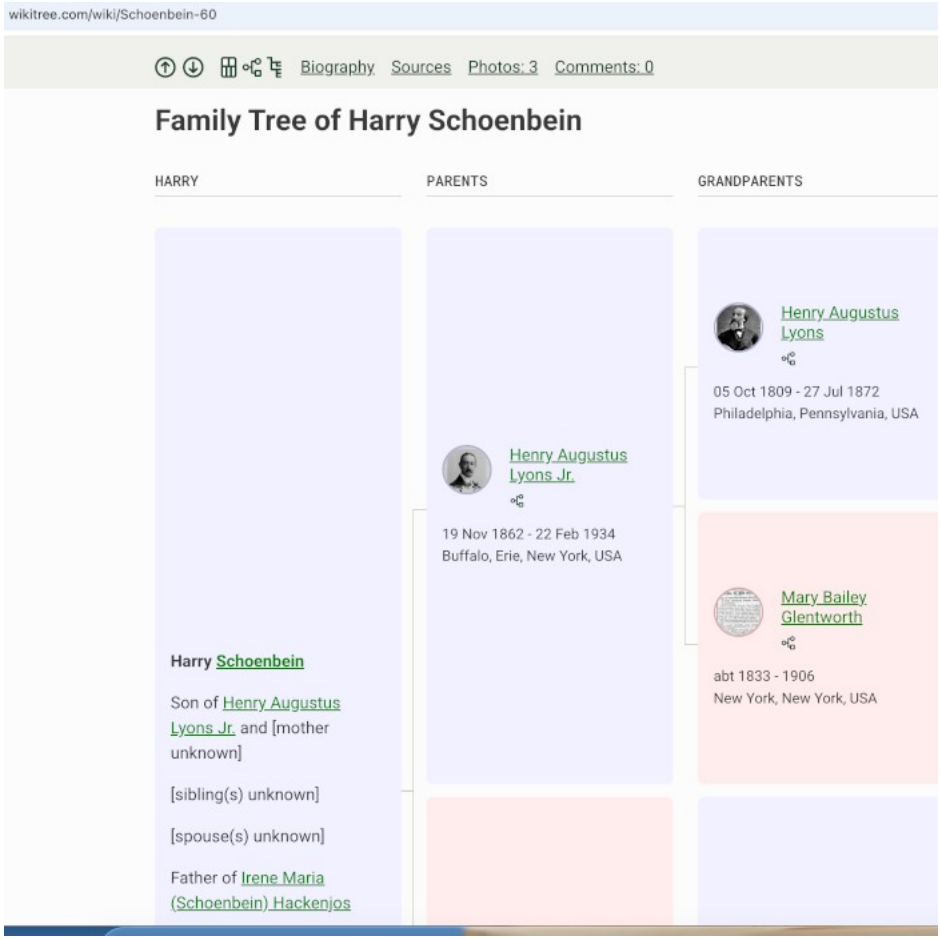
Mengele's father Karl has a page at Findagrave, but it is in German, which is strange. Never seen that. He is listed as Karl (Mayr) Mengele, no parents and no mention of his wife, but that indicates to me his real last name was Mayr or Mayer, not Mengele, confirming again the Jewish question. The text there tells us it was a lost police file that was found after his death that gave us all the information we now have about Mengele. Right. It was lost while Mengele was alive and traveling to Europe, though Wiesenthal, CIA, FBI, and Mossad were looking for him, but suddenly it turned up after he died.

What is interesting is that he applied for this trip to West Germany in February 1959—and did so under his real name. We know that such rumors existed, and we also know that his father was ill in 1959. It fits. And this confirms that he intended to travel there as Josef Mengele. It shows that he felt secure. "He said, 'My identity is genuine; I feel safe and am even going to Germany to visit my father.'"

Where are Mengele's remains kept? Today, Mengele's remains are stored in two cardboard boxes at the forensic institute in São Paulo. SOURCE. Frankfurt public prosecutor Fritz Bauer (1903-1968) initiated the first Auschwitz trial in 1963.

Mengele's first wife Schonbein is also listed at Findagrave, and we learn her father was director Heinrich Schonbein, born in Switzerland. Her mother Elise Stoeckle, b. in Freiburg. Irene later married someone named Hackenjos, though he isn't listed. We can look up the name, however, where we find it is linked by marriage in Wurttemberg to Steinburger, Strohm, Haller and Burgbacher, again indicating Jewish.

But now it gets really interesting, since I found this page at Wikitree:



As Will Hunting would say, how do you like them apples? And you thought I was making it all up. Notice it says Harry is the father of Irene Schoenbein Hackenjos, who is aka Irene Mengele. Well, Harry Schoenbein, turns out, was really Henry Augustus Lyons III of Buffalo, NY, Schoenbein being an alias. A fake name. And of course Augustus is an old Roman/Phoenician name.

From the same pages:

Biography

Henry A. Lyons (October 5, 1809 – July 27, 1872) was the second Chief Justice of California, appointed to the court by the California State Legislature at the formation of the state. He was the first Jewish justice on the court.

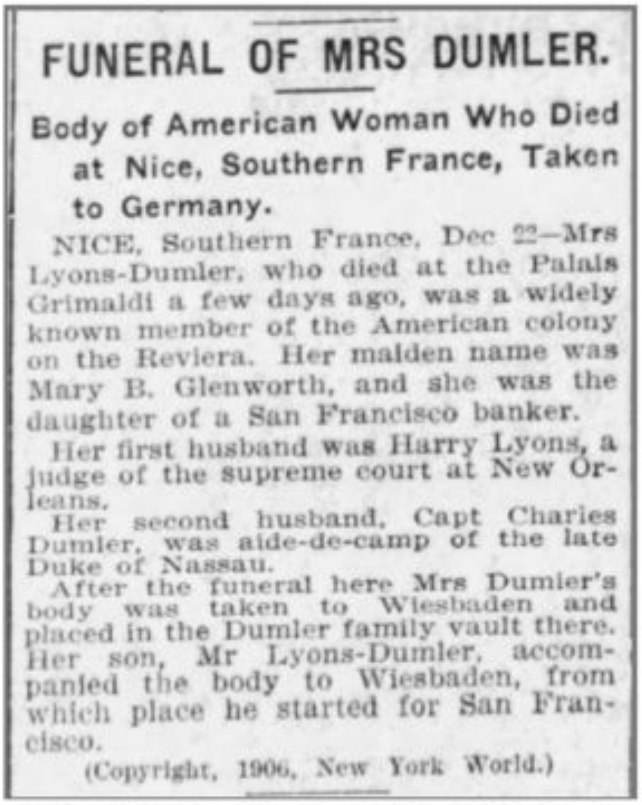
That links out to Wikipedia, which has a page on him, saying the same thing. And I remind you that the King of England is a Bowes-Lyon through his grandmother. And the Glentworths? They are peerage as well, being the de Vere Perys, Lords of Glentworth and Earls of Limerick. That tends to confirm the link to the Windsors, since they admit to being Jewish in many lines, including the Jagiellons and Radziwills.

And that means that Findagrave lied about Irene Mengele's father, since he wasn't Heinrich Schonbein and he wasn't born in Switzerland. He was Henry Lyons, born in Buffalo. Mengele married a Lyons and they have hidden that, for obvious reasons.

At the same time this Henry Lyons was in Buffalo marrying a Glentworth of the Earls of Limerick, there was a peerage Henry Lyons in Limerick marrying the granddaughter of George Montagu, Duke of Manchester. So if that is a coincidence, it is a doozy. More digging shows these Lyons of Philadelphia are the same as the peerage Lyons, since they came over to the US very early, back to at least 1690, when they were living in Antigua and Philadelphia. Henry Augustus Lyons was also from Philadelphia. This links them to the barons and viscounts Lyons, who soon married the Fitzalan-Howards, Dukes of Norfolk, first cousins of the royal Stuarts, in 1839. This also linked them immediately to the Leveson-Gowers, Dukes of Sutherland, and of course Leveson=son of Levi.

But we aren't finished with the fun, oh no. Because the Lords of Glentworth are also closely related to the . . . Trotters. The 5th Earl of Limerick married Angela Olivia Trotter in 1926. Their son became the 6th Earl and he just died in 2003. The 7th Earl is my age, b. 1963. Why do I care? Because Brad Pitt is a Trotter from these lines. He is from the Pitts who were the famous Prime Ministers of England, and they later married into these Trotters. Brad is also from Russian/Ukrainian royal lines, and the 7th Earl just happens to have gone to college at the Pushkin Institute, Moscow. So all these families have links to Russia.

I also found this at Wikitree:



FUNERAL OF MRS DUMLER.

Body of American Woman Who Died at Nice, Southern France, Taken to Germany.

NICE, Southern France, Dec 22—Mrs Lyons-Dumler, who died at the Palais Grimaldi a few days ago, was a widely known member of the American colony on the Reviera. Her malden name was Mary B. Glenworth, and she was the daughter of a San Francisco banker.

Her first husband was Harry Lyons, a judge of the supreme court at New Orleans.

Her second husband, Capt Charles Dumler, was aide-de-camp of the late Duke of Nassau.

After the funeral here Mrs Dumler's body was taken to Wiesbaden and placed in the Dumler family vault there. Her son, Mr Lyons-Dumler, accompanied the body to Wiesbaden, from which place he started for San Francisco.

(Copyright, 1906, New York World.)

The Boston Globe (Boston, Massachusetts) · 23 Dec 1906, Sun · Page 29

Newspapers

That's Irene Mengele's great-grandmother, as you see a very wealthy American socialite, who died on the French Riviera at the Grimaldi Palace. It's a former residence of the Grimaldis, Princes of Monaco. Think Prince Rainier, who married Grace Kelly. And notice that after she divorced Lyons, she married Capt Dumler, aide-de-camp to the Duke of Nassau. Telling you who these people really were. You may have thought she was some downmarket Glentworth from the US, but you thought wrong. Not only was she the daughter of a super-wealthy San Francisco banker, she was from these Earls of Limerick I just showed you.

That Duke of Nassau is also a clue, since he was Adolphe, of the House of Nassau, and here is their coat of arms:

I remind you that we are studying Mary Lyons, and there you have a ramping lion. That is because the Dukes of Nassau were also the Princes of Orange and therefore also at times the Kings of the Netherlands, of England, of Scotland, of Germany, and of the Romans.

Are we finished? Not even, since we also link to the Duke of Wellington. Angela Trotter, who we just saw marrying a Lord Glentworth, was the granddaughter of Admiral Sir George Greville Wellesley, his uncle (who he looked exactly like) being the Duke of Wellington. So there are just a couple of degrees of separation between Josef Mengele, Brad Pitt, and the Duke of Wellington. You heard it here first.

In February 2010, a 180-page volume of Mengele's diary was sold by Alexander Autographs at auction for an undisclosed sum to the grandson of a Holocaust survivor. The unidentified previous owner, who acquired the journals in Brazil, was reported to be close to the Mengele family.

Aces and eights. So the fraud continues.